

Providing your organisation with the tools needed for effective and consistent PPM management and delivery. Providing flexibility with both methodology and infrastructure and an excellent reporting capability all for typically £200 per user.

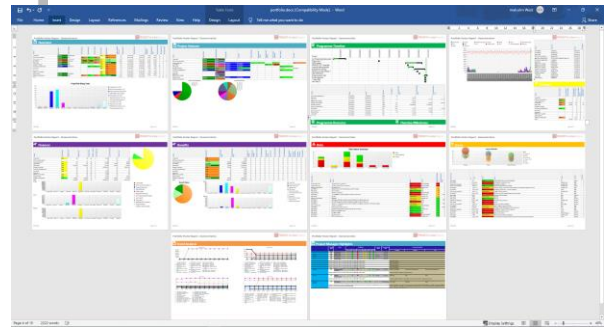

PROJECT in a box provides you with a tool kit to meet your project and programme aspirations whatever your role in the organisation and however you want to interact with the system.

Full Audit trail lets you see where your team members are in the project process and what they have been working on. Feature rich task and resource management keeps you in the picture. Manage multiple approval processes with ease. Email integration makes communications and collaboration easy - hooking into appointments and tasks as well as emails in Outlook and email support for any other email platform. Keep you and your team members up to date with automatic notifications about tasks and documents.

If the project deviates, as PM you can modify the documentation adding or removing elements to keep the project on track and the powerful reporting capability saves you loads of time when preparing communications for project stakeholders.

The Corporate Perspective
PROJECT in a box will give you confidence that your projects, programmes and portfolios are being delivered successfully. Set the direction and methodology, whether one of the standards led ones we provide (PRINCE2®, DSDM Atern & MSP®), your own derivatives or your own custom methodology. Real time dashboards or reports are available at the touch of a button, branded to your requirements and easy to share and digest, at project, programme and portfolio levels.

The Team Member's Perspective
PROJECT in a box de clutters project contributions just showing you the documents you need to consider and are permitted to see at each step of a project. The different project methods available means that documents on smaller less complex projects can be likewise simpler and lighter encouraging all projects to work in the same structured approach. Guidance is also provided, so even if you don't know the methodology in detail you can still contribute. Your own task list and notifications also help you keep in touch.

Easy to implement on your own infrastructure or we can host it for you and it comes prepopulated with methodologies, reports, dashboards and everything you need to set the standard.

Even for the part time project team members documents can be made available to view or edit via the browser interface (Enterprise Hub) so everyone can keep in touch with what is going on.

Typical implementations are around £150-£200 per user depending on the blend of functionality required and licences can be easily transferred to derive maximum value from your investment.

The Project Manager's Perspective
Share access to your project documents, controls and communications, use the straightforward permissions model to control who has access to which documents and what they can do with them. You can even share access with your customer, partners and suppliers if you want to, using the secure collaborative working tools.

As PROJECT in a box allows you to use any file types you want in the project documentation there are no new applications to learn making it easy to adopt and reducing the amount of training required. In fact well over 80% of our users successfully implement without any formal application training from us.
